Joseph Cacace has built a track record of success at all levels of federal and state courts and in arbitrations and mediations.

Joe Cacace is a seasoned trial lawyer who represents clients in complex business litigation and high-stakes commercial disputes. He has significant experience litigating contract claims, shareholder and partnership disputes, breach of fiduciary duty matters, trade secret misappropriation, non-competition and non-solicitation cases, and other corporate conflicts in both state and federal courts. Known for his strategic insight and courtroom skill, Joe helps businesses and individuals protect their interests and resolve disputes efficiently and effectively.

In addition to his business litigation practice, Joe is widely recognized for his work in First Amendment, defamation, and media law. He regularly represents clients in cases involving reputational harm, free speech, and press-related matters, offering experience that complements his business litigation practice, where reputational issues often intersect with corporate disputes.

Joe's clients include business owners, executives, media entities, and individuals facing reputational or financial risk. He is frequently sought out for his ability to manage high-profile, sensitive litigation while maintaining focus on achieving favorable outcomes.

Joe also represents clients in school and university disciplinary proceedings, including Title IX investigations and related litigation. His work in this area involves advising and defending students facing allegations of sexual misconduct or other conduct violations, and has also involved counseling and defending institutions on disciplinary and Title IX matters.

Mr. Cacace has served on the Amicus Brief and Appellate-Bench Bar Committees of the Massachusetts Bar Association, and the Board of Governors of the Law Clerks' Society of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court. He also served on the Large Law Firm Subcommittee of the Supreme Judicial Court's Steering Committee on Lawyer Well-Being.

Mr. Cacace is a frequent presenter on civil litigation topics and has commented in the media on various legal issues.

Prior to joining Todd & Weld, Mr. Cacace was a litigator at a large Boston-based multinational law firm. He served as a law clerk to the Honorable Robert J. Cordy of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court.
