Widmaier Charles combines his commercial litigation experience with a background in business and real estate to better understand and serve his clients' business objectives and legal needs.

Widmaier M. Charles concentrates his litigation practice on complex business disputes and real estate matters. He represents clients in all phases of litigation and arbitration, including drafting pleadings, managing pre-trial discovery, handling motions, and arguing at trial. Mr. Charles also represents health care professionals in administrative law appeals.

Prior to joining Todd & Weld, Mr. Charles was a civil litigation attorney at a boutique Boston law firm where he focused on cases involving construction litigation, personal injury, and premises liability. Prior to private practice, he was a judicial law clerk at the Massachusetts Appeals Court, as well as an Assistant Attorney General at the Massachusetts Attorney General's Office.

Mr. Charles serves as a member of the Massachusetts Law Review Editorial Board. Prior to law school, he obtained his real estate broker license and worked in the commercial real estate industry.
